

Viewing Email Headers

This document contains instructions for viewing, copying, and forwarding email headers under the following applications:

1. AOL 8.0 & 9.0
2. AOL Communicator
3. Entourage
4. Eudora 5.1
5. Eudora 6.1
6. Hotmail
7. Netscape Communicator 4.77
8. Netscape Mail 7.1
9. Outlook 2000, 2002, & XP\(2003\)
10. Outlook Express 5.5, 6.0
11. Yahoo! Mail

The information provided herein is intended for law enforcement to use in educational and investigative processes. It may be freely distributed by law enforcement to anyone in need of this information at any time. No fees are to be charged for receiving this document.

This information is provided courtesy of:

SEARCH, The National Consortium for Justice Information and Statistics
National Criminal Justice Computer Laboratory and Training Center

<http://www.search.org/>

Authors:

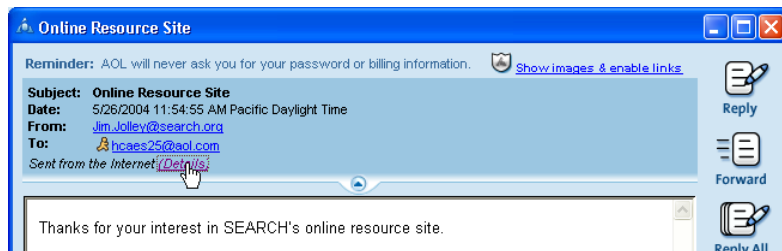

Todd Colvin & Jim Jolley

Comments, questions, suggestions:

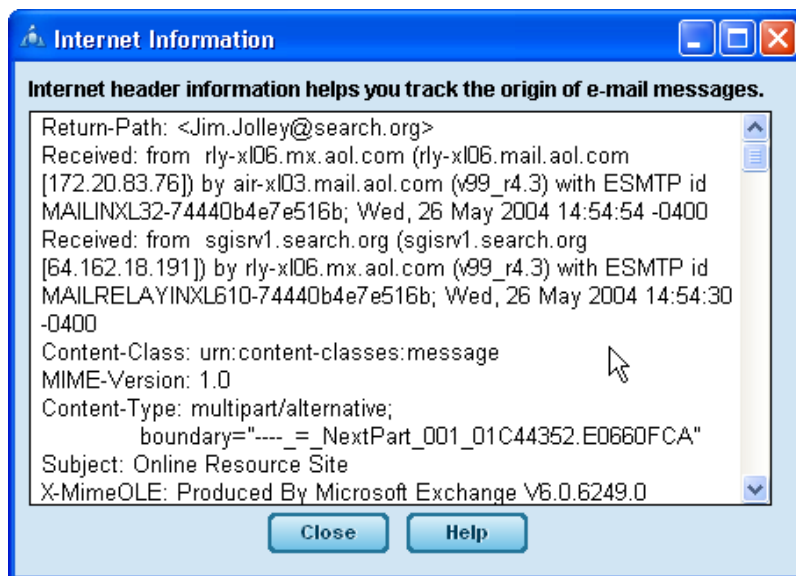

todd.colvin@search.org jim.jolley@search.org

AOL

1. Sign on to the America Online (AOL) account.
 2. Open the email message. (Be sure the scroll bar on the message is at the top.)
 3. Next to the line “Sent from the Internet,” there is a “Details” link in parenthesis. Click on the “Details” link to view the full email header.
- ❑ NOTE: Sometimes the “Sent from the Internet (Details)” line is not present. This is an indication that the email was sent from one AOL member to another AOL member. In these cases, the full email header is the information listed at the top of the email — there is no other information to obtain.

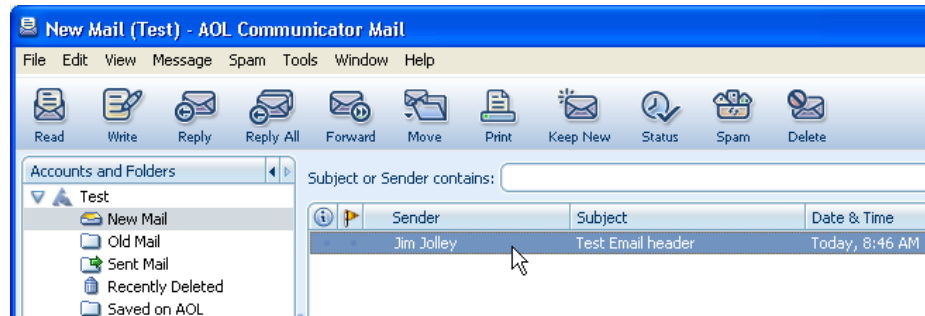

- ❑ The window that opens displays the full email header.
- ❑ Read the following instructions to copy and paste the email header.
4. Single-click anywhere in the window on any portion of the email header.
 5. Hold down the “Ctrl” key (the Control button) on your keyboard and then press the “A” key one time. This should highlight the entire email header in blue. Continue holding the “Ctrl” key down. If you have let go of the “Ctrl” key, press it down and hold it again.
 6. With the “Ctrl” key depressed, press the “C” key one time. This will copy the email header into memory as long as the email header is still highlighted in blue at the time you press the “Ctrl” and “C” key. Release the “Ctrl” key.
 7. Open the word processor, text editor, or email application/program that you want to copy this information into.
 8. Hold down the “Ctrl” key and press the “V” key one time to paste the email header into the word processor, text editor, or email application/program. Or, select “Edit” from the toolbar menu of the application/program you are using and select “Paste.”

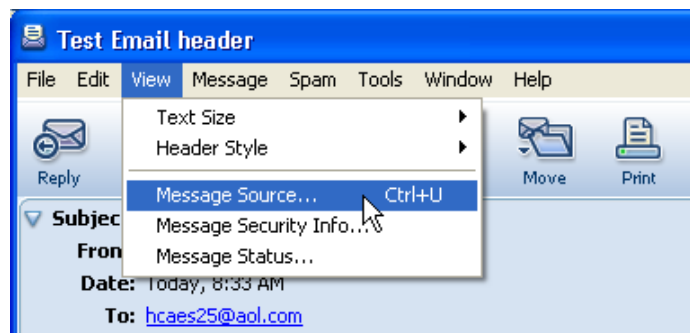

AOL Communicator

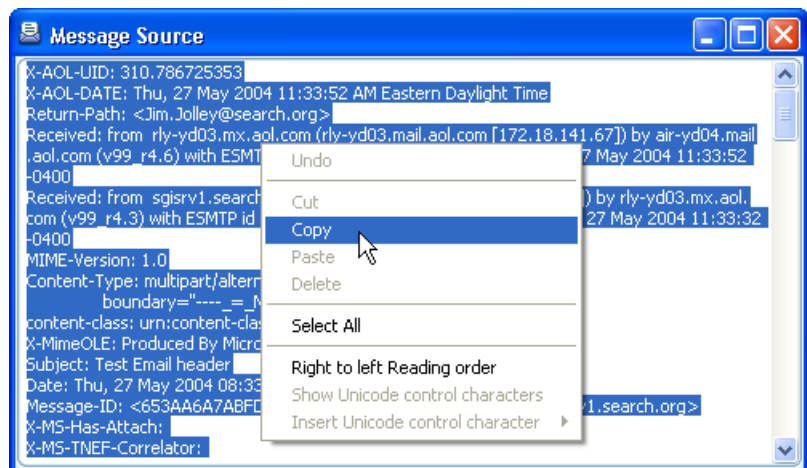

1. Login to the AOL account.
2. Open the email message.

3. In the message window, select 'Message Source...' from the 'View' menu. A 'Message Source' window will open.

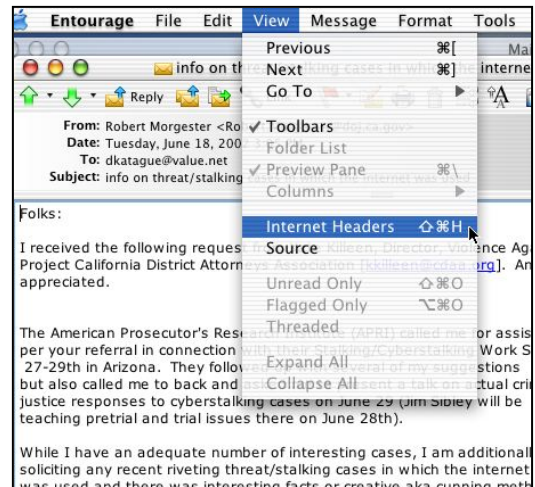

4. Highlight the header information by holding down the left mouse button and dragging the cursor across the text from the top to the bottom.
5. Right-click over the highlighted text and select "Copy" from the menu.
6. Open a word processor, text editor, or email application / program that you want to copy this information into.
7. Hold down the "Ctrl" key and press the "V" key one time to paste the email header into the word processor, text editor, or email application/program. Or, select "Edit" from the toolbar menu of the application/program you are using and select "Paste."

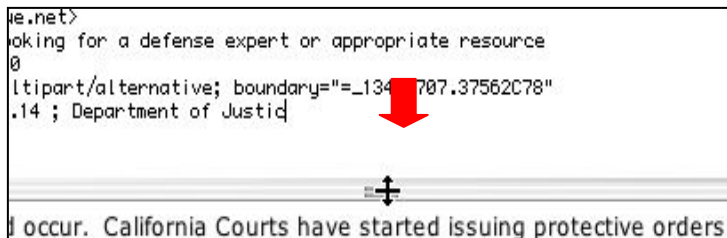

Microsoft Entourage X for Macintosh

1. Open the email message.
2. Select "View" from the menu bar.
3. Select the "Internet Headers" option and make sure a check mark appears on the left.

4. Select the two horizontal bars on the middle divider between the header and the email message. The cursor turns into a cross with two arrowheads.

5. Click the mouse on the center of the cross and drag the bar down to view the entire header.

6. Click at the bottom portion of the header and drag the mouse up to the top. Release the mouse. The header message should be highlighted.

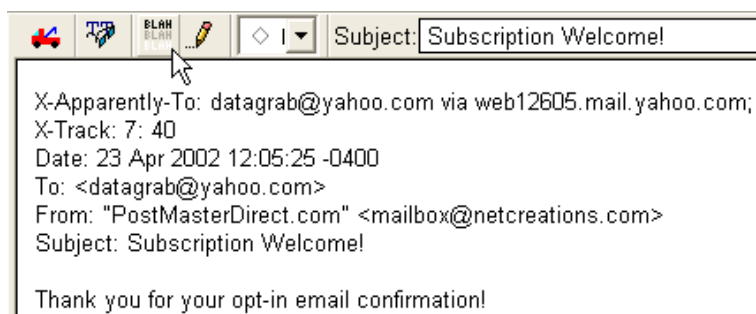

7. Press Command-C (hold the Command key down and then press the "C" key). Or, select "Copy" from the Edit menu. This will copy the email header into the invisible clipboard.
8. Open a word processor, text editor, or email application that you want to copy this information into. Put the cursor in the body of the page you want the message to go. Press Command-V (or select "Paste" from the Edit menu) to paste the text.

Eudora 5.1

1. Open the email by double clicking on the message.

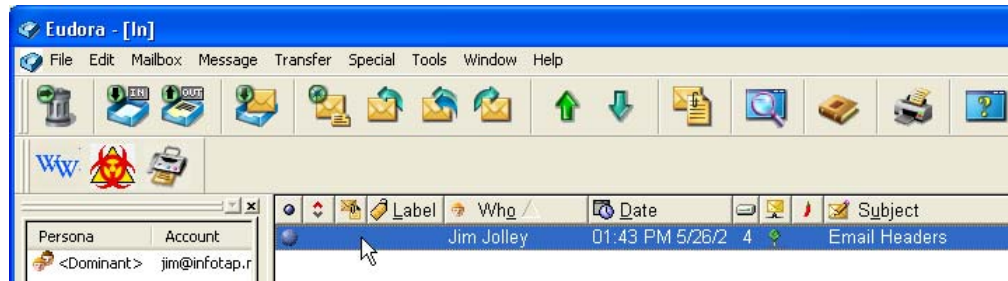

2. In the upper left-hand corner of the opened email is an icon that reads "BLAH BLAH BLAH."
3. Click on the BLAH BLAH BLAH icon. The header will now appear as part of the email and can be forwarded or printed out.

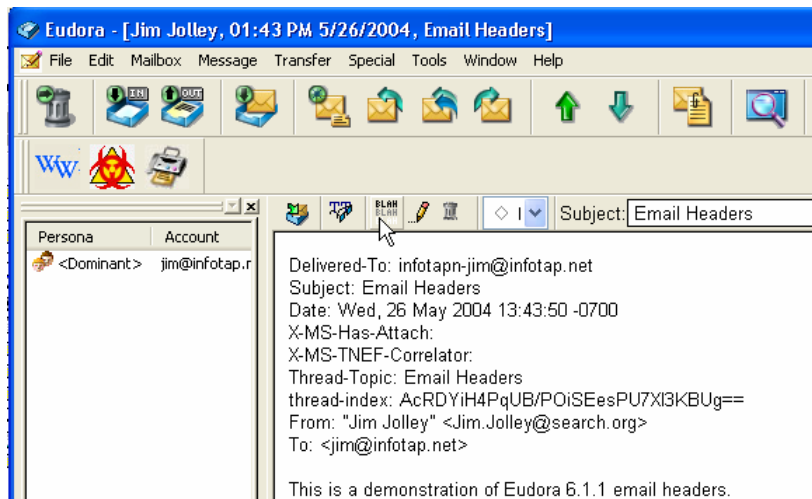

Eudora 6.1

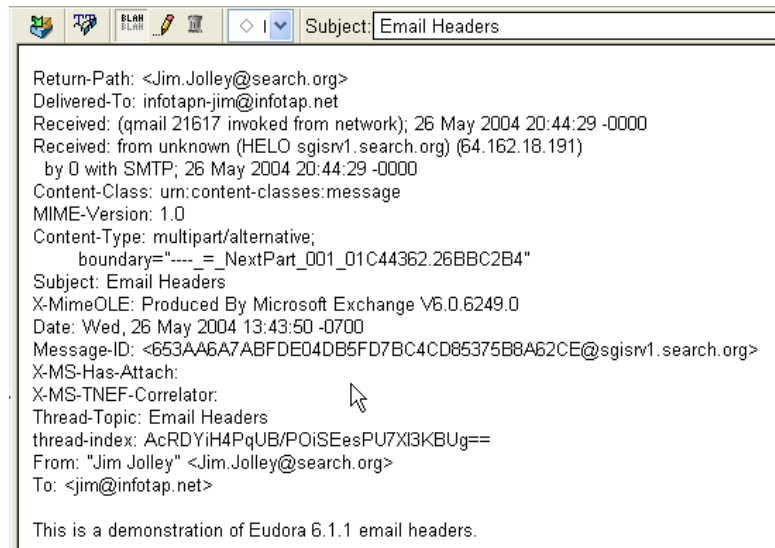

1. Open the email by double clicking on the message.

2. In the upper left-hand corner of the opened email is an icon that reads "BLAH BLAH BLAH."

3. Click on the BLAH BLAH BLAH icon. The header will now appear as part of the email and can be forwarded or printed out.

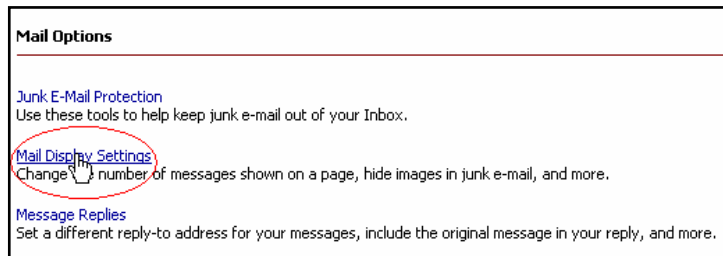

Hotmail

1. Login to the Hotmail account.

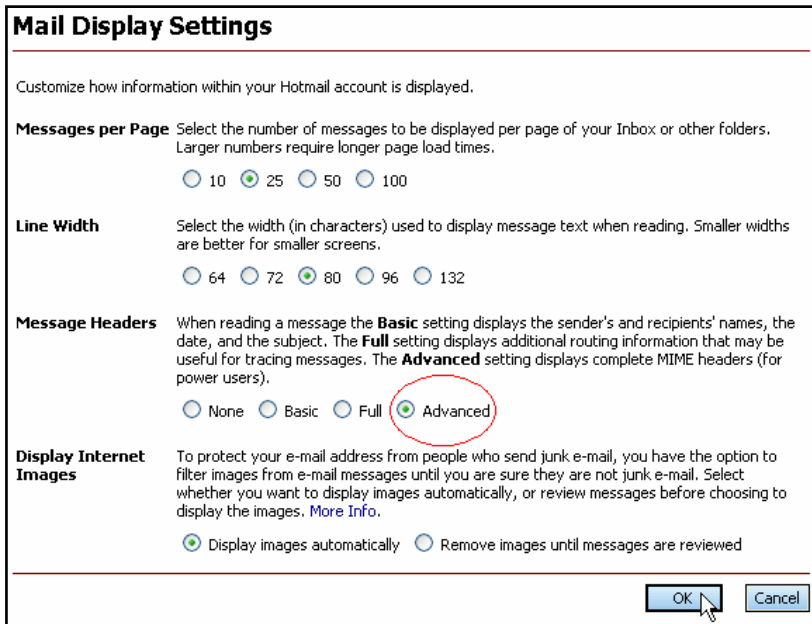

2. Select "Options" from the menu at the right top of the Hotmail banner.

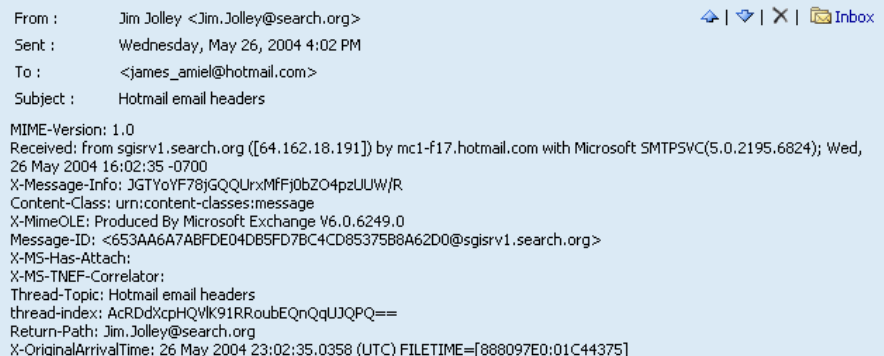

3. Select "Mail Display Settings" under the "Mail Options" section.

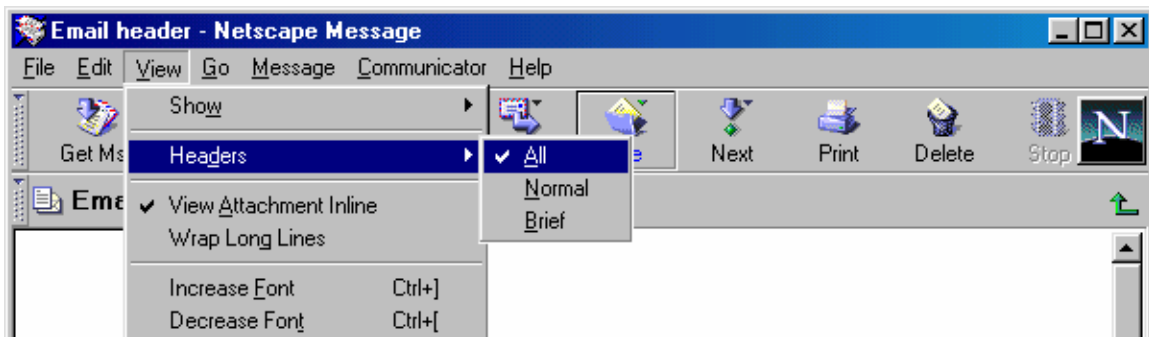

4. Go to the "Message Headers" section.
5. Select the "Advanced" button.
6. At the bottom of the screen, click on "OK" to save your new settings.

7. Now when the email is opened, the header will be displayed and the header will be also be forwarded along with the message.

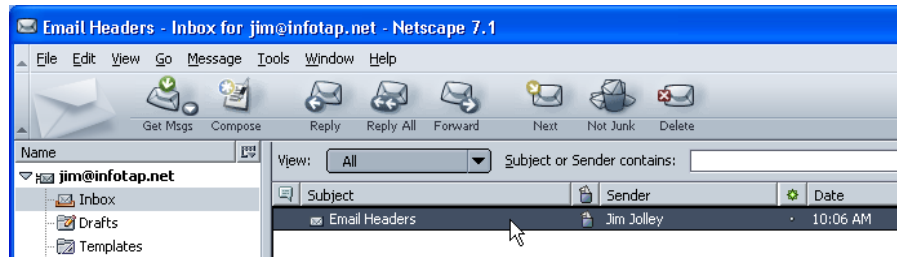

Netscape Communicator 4.77

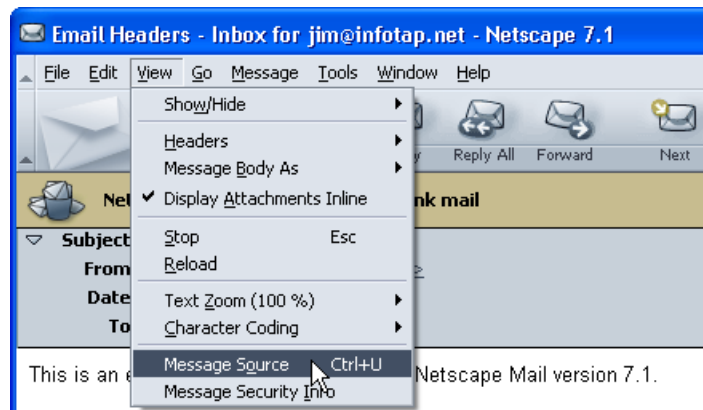

1. Open the email message.
2. Select "View" from the toolbar menu.
3. Highlight the "Headers" option.
4. Select "All."

Netscape Mail 7.1

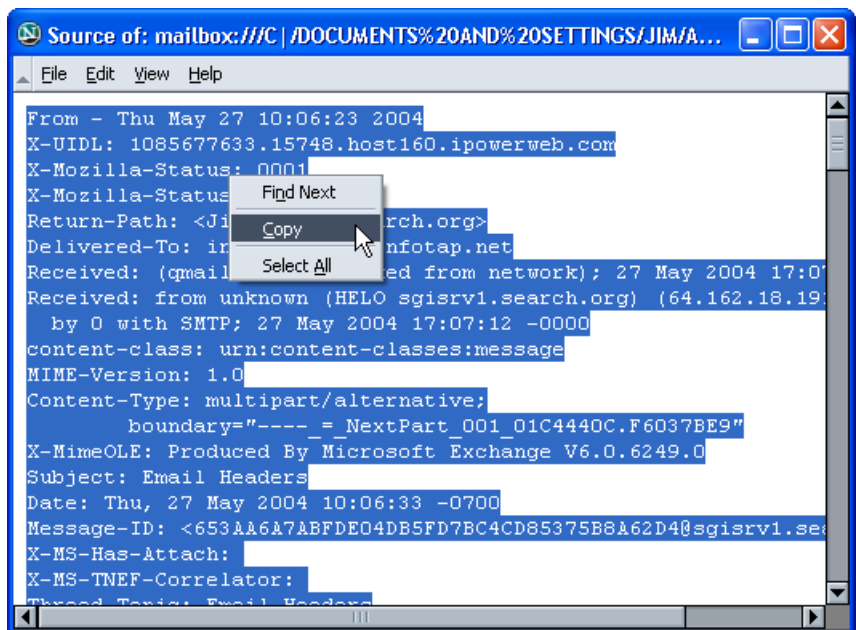

1. Login to your mail account using the Netscape Mail program.
2. Open the email message.

3. In the message window, select 'Message Source' from the 'View' menu. A 'Source of:...' window will open.

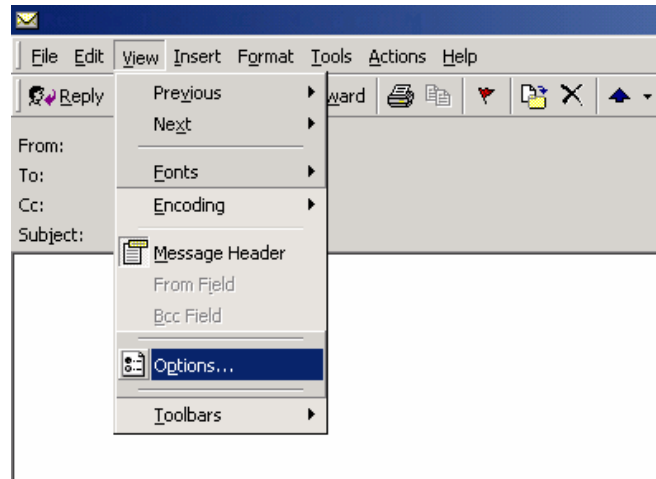

4. Highlight the header information by holding down the left mouse button and dragging the cursor across the text from the top to the bottom.
5. Right-click over the highlighted text and select "Copy" from the menu.
6. Open a word processor, text editor, or email application / program that you want to copy this information into.

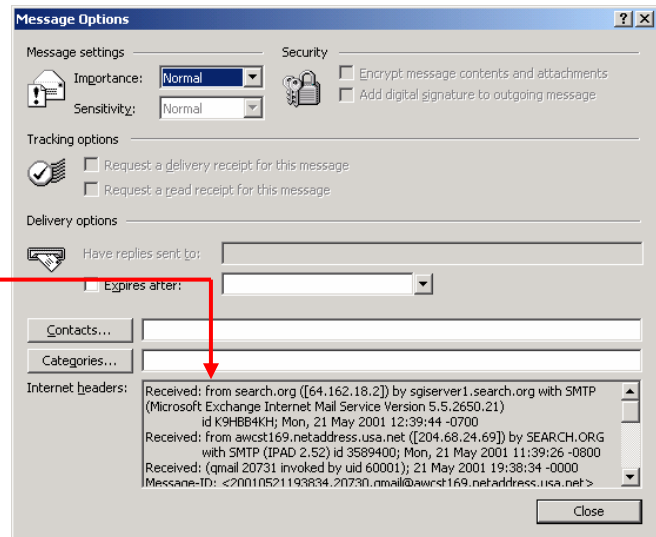

7. Hold down the "Ctrl" key and press the "V" key one time to paste the email header into the word processor, text editor, or email application/program. Or, select "Edit" from the toolbar menu of the application/program you are using and select "Paste."

Outlook 2000, 2002, & XP(2003)

1. Open the email message.
2. Select “View” from the toolbar menu.
3. Select “Options.”

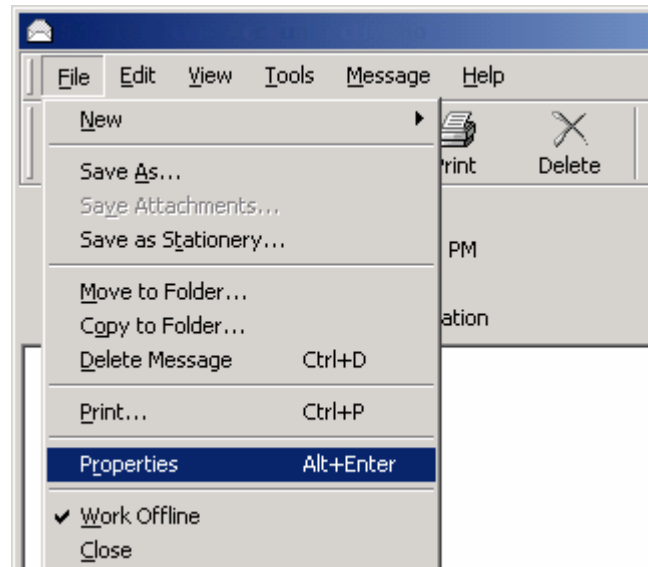

4. The email header displays at the bottom of the window that opens.
5. Read the following instructions to copy and paste the email header.
6. Single-click anywhere in the bottom window on any portion of the email header.
7. Hold down the “Ctrl” key (the Control button) on your keyboard and then press the “A” key one time. This should highlight the entire email header in blue. Continue holding the “Ctrl” key down. If you have let go of the “Ctrl” key, press it down and hold it again. With the “Ctrl” key depressed, press the “C” key one time. This will copy the email header into memory as long as the email header is still highlighted in blue at the time you press the “Ctrl” and “C” key. Release the “Ctrl” key.
8. Open the word processor, text editor, or email application/program that you want to copy this information into.
9. Hold down the “Ctrl” key and press the “V” key one time to paste the email header into the word processor, text editor, or email application/program. Or, select “Edit” from the toolbar menu of the application/program you are using and select “Paste.”

Outlook Express 5.5, 6.0

1. Open the email message.
2. Select "File" from the toolbar menu.
3. Select the "Properties" option.

4. In the window that opens, select the "Details" tab. This will display the email header.
- ❑ Read the following instructions to copy and paste the email header.
5. Single-click anywhere in the window on any portion of the email header.
6. Hold down the "Ctrl" key (the Control button) on your keyboard and then press the "A" key one time. This should highlight the entire email header in blue. Continue holding the "Ctrl" key down. If you have let go of the "Ctrl" key, press it down and hold it again.
7. With the "Ctrl" key depressed, press the "C" key one time. This will copy the email header into memory as long as the email header is still highlighted in blue at the time you press the "Ctrl" and "C" key. Release the "Ctrl" key.

8. Open the word processor, text editor, or email application/program that you want to copy this information into.
9. Hold down the "Ctrl" key and press the "V" key one time to paste the email header into the word processor, text editor, or email application/program. Or, select "Edit" from the toolbar menu of the application/program you are using and select "Paste."

Yahoo! Mail

1. Login to the Yahoo! account.
2. Select "Mail Options."

Mail Upgrades - Search Mail - Mail Options

3. Select "General Preferences."

Mail Options

Personalization

General Preferences

Customize your Inbox view. Change your outgoing name and address.

4. Scroll down the screen and select "Show all" at the Headers option.

Messages

Headers:

- ☐ Show brief headers on incoming messages (recommended)
☒ Show all headers on incoming messages

Font Size:

Normal ▼

5. Scroll down the screen and select "Save."

Save Cancel

6. Return to the mail page and open the email message.
7. Highlight the header information by holding down the left mouse button and dragging the cursor across the text.
8. Right-click over the highlighted text and select "Copy" from the menu.
9. Open the word processor, text editor, or email application/program that you want to copy this information into.

10. Hold down the "Ctrl" key and press the "V" key one time to paste the email header into the word processor, text editor, or email application/program. Or, select "Edit" from the toolbar menu of the application/program you are using and select "Paste."