International Transfers

We share your “personal data”, as defined under applicable data protection laws in the UK and European Economic Area (EEA) within our corporate group. This will involve transferring your data outside the UK and European Economic Area (EEA), including to our overseas offices in the United States. We may also transfer your personal data to service providers that carry out certain functions on our behalf. This may involve transferring personal data outside the UK and/or EEA to countries which have laws that do not provide the same level of data protection as the UK or EEA.

Whenever we transfer your personal data out of the UK or EEA, we ensure a similar degree of protection is afforded to it by ensuring that the following safeguards are in place:

- We will only transfer your personal data to countries that have been deemed under applicable EEA or UK law to provide an adequate level of protection for personal data.

We may use specific standard contractual terms approved for use under UK and EEA law which gives the transferred personal data the same protection as it has in the UK and EEA.

Your UK and EU Legal Rights

These disclosures apply only to our processing of Personal Information within the scope of the General Data Protection Regulation ("GDPR") from one or more of the European Union Member States plus Iceland, Lichtenstein and Norway (together known as the "European Economic Area" or "EEA").

You may have certain rights in the United Kingdom or European Union with respect to the processing of your personal data, including:

You have certain rights with respect to the processing of your personal data, including:

- Access. You have the right to know if we are processing personal data about you and, if so, to access and obtain a copy of personal data about you, as well as information relating to the processing of that data. This right does not allow you to access the personal data of others. Where possible we shall provide your personal data without disclosing any information that identifies another individual. If this is not possible, we may not be able to provide such data to you unless we obtain the consent of the other identified individuals or it is reasonable for us to comply with the request without obtaining consent. There may be other exemptions to the right of access and we shall inform you if these are applicable, at the time of your request.
- Correction. You have the right to have us correct or update any personal data about you that is inaccurate or incomplete, though we may need to verify the accuracy of the new data you provide to us.
- Erasure. You have the right to request deletion or erasure of your personal data in certain circumstances, including:

- If the personal data is no longer necessary.
- When we rely on consent to process your personal data and you withdraw consent and we have no other lawful basis.
- When we rely on legitimate interests and you object to our processing.
- If your personal data has been unlawfully processed.
- If we are sending direct marketing to you and you object.
- Where we are required to erase your personal data to comply with local law.

We may not always be able to comply with your request of erasure for specific legal reasons which will be notified to you, if applicable, at the time of your request. For example, you may not have the right to have your data deleted from our Platforms if:

- There is a court order requiring use of OurFamilyWizard or there is a legal obligation to keep your personal data.
- The data is needed for legal proceedings or claims (including prospective legal proceedings or claims) or to obtain legal advice.
- In some circumstances, we have an overriding legitimate interest to continue processing. For example,
 - you may provide personal data that is shared with other subscribers (e.g. messages). Even if you no longer wish to use our services, we may still need this personal data in order to provide services to other subscribers.
 - the content of your communications with other users when using our Platforms is an important record for those you communicate with and would likely be regarded as personal data of both you and the other user (as well as any individuals who might be the subject of communications). Therefore, we would typically have an overriding legitimate interest in retaining this personal data even if you request us to delete it, as deletion would be prejudicial to those you share your personal data with. This is because they would no longer be able to access the records that they rely on if these were deleted at your request.

- Portability. You have the right to request the transfer of your personal data to you or to a third party. We will provide to you, or a third party you have chosen, your personal data in a structured, commonly used, machine-readable format. Note that this right only applies to automated information which you initially provided consent for us to use or where we used the information to perform a contract with you.
- Restriction of Processing. You have the right to restrict or limit the ways in which we process your personal data, in one of the following scenarios:
 - If you want us to establish the data's accuracy.
 - Where our use of the data is unlawful but you do not want us to erase it.
 - Where you need us to hold the data even if we no longer require it as you need it to establish, exercise or defend legal claims.
 - You have objected to our use of your data, though in this case, we would first need to verify whether we have overriding legitimate grounds to use it.
- Withdrawal of Consent. When we rely on consent as the basis for processing personal data, you have the right to withdraw your consent. However, this will not affect the lawfulness of any processing carried out before you withdraw your consent. If you withdraw your consent, we may not be able to provide certain products or services to you. We will advise you if this is the case at the time you withdraw your consent.
- Objection. You have the right to object to our processing of your personal data when we are relying on legitimate interests as our legal basis and your rights override our legitimate interests in processing their personal data. As with your right of erasure, we may not always be able to comply with your request to restrict processing for specific legal reasons which will be notified to you, if applicable, at the time of your request.

- Complaint. You have the right to make a complaint about our personal data handling practices to your local Supervisory Authority. In the UK, this is the Information Commissioner's Office (ICO), the UK regulator for data protection issues (www.ico.org.uk). We would, however, appreciate the chance to deal with your concerns before you approach your local Supervisory Authority so please contact us in the first instance.

As with your right of erasure, we may not always be able to comply with your request to restrict processing for specific legal reasons which will be notified to you, if applicable, at the time of your request.

You also have the right to object to our processing of your personal data for direct marketing purposes.

You will not have to pay a fee to access your personal data (or to exercise any of the other rights). However, we may charge a reasonable fee if your request is clearly unfounded, repetitive or excessive. Alternatively, we could refuse to comply with your request in these circumstances.

We may need to request specific information from you to help us confirm your identity and ensure your right to access your personal data (or to exercise any of your other rights). This is a security measure to ensure that personal data is not disclosed to any person who has no right to receive it. We may also contact you to ask you for further information in relation to your request to speed up our response.

We try to respond to all legitimate requests within one month. Occasionally it could take us longer than a month if your request is particularly complex or you have made a number of requests. In this case, we will notify you and keep you updated.

If you wish to exercise any of the rights set out above, please contact us using the contact details at the end of this Privacy Policy.

We commit to resolve complaints about our collection or use of your Personal Information. If you are unable to resolve your concern by contacting us, you may lodge a complaint with your local regulatory authority(ies). We encourage you to visit the websites of those third-parties and fully read and understand their privacy policies. Some of these entities will have different privacy terms than we do and their servers may be located outside the United States.

The Services may link to other websites or through advertisements. We disclaim any and all responsibility for the privacy practices of third-parties that may have links to or from our Services. We encourage you to review the privacy policies and privacy statements of every website that you visit that collects personally identifiable information.

When you utilize features such as voice and video communication and recordings, you may be directed to services provided by Twilio, which is an independent third-party. We encourage you to review Twilio's privacy policy and terms of service to fully understand their practices and how they handle your data.

Data Retention

We will only retain your personal data for as long as reasonably necessary to fulfil the purposes we collected it for, including for the purposes of satisfying any legal, regulatory, tax, accounting or reporting requirements. We may retain your personal data for a longer period in the event of a complaint or if we reasonably believe there is a prospect of litigation in respect to our relationship with you.

To determine the appropriate retention period for personal data, we consider the amount, nature and sensitivity of the personal data, the potential risk of harm from unauthorized use or disclosure of your personal data, the purposes for which we process your personal data and whether we can achieve those purposes through other means, and the applicable legal, regulatory, tax, accounting or other requirements.
